RACE TO SPACE

SPACE SHUTTLE FACTS:

While in orbit, the Space Shuttle travels around the Earth at a top speed of 17,500 miles per hour.

The Space Shuttle and its boosters ready for launch are taller than the Statue of Liberty.

The Space Shuttle is 184 feet long and weighs 4.5 million pounds.

There have been five space shuttles built so far. They are named: Enterprise, Columbia, Challenger, Discovery, and Atlantis.

AND FLY IN THE SKY

JET FACTS:

The world's fastest manned jet airplane, which flies at about Mach 3.5 (more than 2,000 mph), is the U.S. Air Force's SR-71 Blackbird.

The popular jumbo jet Boeing 747 was first created in 1969.

Every day there are approximately 200,000 flights taking off around the world.

The long, thin body of an aircraft is called the fuselage.

CAN YOU SOLVE THE MYSTERY WITH VELMA AND THE REST OF THE GANG?

Like, zoinks!!

Scooby-Doo and the Gang are investigating a monstrous mystery! A valuable Egyptian exhibit, along with priceless gold and jewels, has been stolen from the local museum. A Ghost, a Headless Horseman, and a Black Knight have all been spotted in the area.

The police have found the sarcophagus in the woods, so the gang is investigating the mysterious mansion nearby to look for the stolen gold!

HERE ARE THE CLUES THEY FOUND:

CLUE 1

The police found the sarcophagus surrounded by a swamp. The area was unreachable by anyone on foot.

CLUE 2

While investigating in the woods, Shaggy tripped over a novel by Washington Irving that had a missing cover.

CLUE 3

Velma found 6 small white seeds on the ground near the mansion.

CLUE 4

Daphne discovered these footprints near the mansion:

CLUE 5

Inside the conservatory, Fred observed that several of the potted plants were sinking into the ground.

USE THE CLUES TO SOLVE THE MYSTERY! THINK YOU HAVE IT FIGURED OUT?

Who stole the exhibit, gold and jewels from the museum?

Where are the gold and jewels hidden now? _____

SCOOBY-DOO!

"I've cracked this case! Read below to see how I solved the mystery using the clues we found!"

When the police first discovered the missing Egyptian exhibit abandoned in the woods, I had a hunch that the criminal was really after the gold and jewels hidden inside the sarcophagus and wasn't just an ancient Egyptian history buff. Also, because the swamp was impossible to cross on foot, that meant we were searching for someone who wasn't just walking around!

While on our way to the mysterious mansion in the nearby woods, Shaggy stumbled across a book that the criminal accidentally dropped. The author, Washington Irving, is well-known for his most famous short story: The Legend of Sleepy Hollow. The small white seeds I found near the mansion turned out to be pumpkin seeds, and the footprints Daphne discovered were actually hoof prints! Both of these clues confirmed my hunch: someone masquerading as the Headless Horseman had stolen the Egyptian exhibit! After stealing the gold and jewels inside, the Headless Horseman left the sarcophagus in the middle of the woods and took off on horseback to the mansion.

The only mystery left to solve was where the Headless Horseman had hidden the loot! I deduced that he hid them inside the potted plants in the conservatory. Because gold is so heavy, it made some of the pots sink into the ground, while the rest of the pots that didn't have gold hidden inside were fine.

Case closed!

ARMY OF THE UNDEAD!

The minions of Kulta the Skull Grinder are mighty beasts indeed! Each one hides a powerful attack and share their master's hunger for the golden masks... nothing will get in their way!

SKULL WARRIOR

With each stolen mask, Kulta channels greater elemental power and yet more undead Skull Warriors rise! Disabling opponents with a barrage from the Freeze Bow rapid shooter, the Skull Warrior then uses its hook blade to pull their mask away. This gives its master even more power!

THE LORD OF THE SKULL SPIDERS

The ruthless ruler of the Skull Spiders controls a horde of monsters with his psychic powers. But even if you avoid his army, his grip attack can render even the most powerful Toa helpless!

SKULL SLICER

Long ago the Skull Slicer was an unbeatable arena champion, loved by the inhabitants of Okoto... but now his past is lost to him. Controlled by the Lord of the Skull Spiders and fused to his hookblades and mask grabber, the four-armed warrior prowls the arena ruins ready to steal masks from the unwary!

DEEP SEA DISCOVERY

The basic difference between a boat and a ship is that boats are designed for rivers and inland waterways, ships for seas and oceans.

Sharks are actually unable to see color. This is despite well-developed eyes and a large sensory brain area dedicated to the processing of visual information, because they simply don't need it to find their way around the ocean and find food.

Children can learn to dive as young as the age of 8 – the only requirement is that they must be able to manage the weight of the equipment.

A detailed LEGO Deep Sea Diver set is shown against a dark blue background with light rays. In the foreground, a diver minifigure is wearing a red helmet, a blue mask, and a yellow and blue diving suit with a large yellow air tank. The tank has 'E-104' printed on it. In the background, a white and blue submersible is visible, along with various sea creatures like a shark, a squid, and a jellyfish. A yellow callout box is in the top left, and a purple callout box is in the bottom right.

Richard Presley spent a whopping 69 days and 19 minutes in an underwater module in a lagoon off Key Largo, Florida, in 1992, setting the record for the longest deep dive.

Octopuses have three hearts. Two pump blood through each of the two gills, while the third pumps blood through the body.

THE MINDSTORMS[®] DAILY NEWS

September 1st

BRING YOUR CREATION TO LIFE!

I, the Mad Scientist, present my guide to building and programming a real-life robot with LEGO MINDSTORMS[®] EV3...and then taking over the world!

1. BUILD IT!

Assemble your robot using TECHNIC elements, LEGO[®] bricks, motors and servos...and flamethrowers, laser blasters, etc.

2. GIVE IT SENSES!

You can use any of the EV3 sensors to give your robot sight, hearing and touch... so it can track down your enemies!

3. GIVE IT LIFE!

The EV3 Intelligent Brick is the brain of your robot. It can be programmed using the on-board controls, your computer or your smart device.

4. GETTING GOING!

You can begin following the easy to follow step-by-step 3D building instructions to create five starting robots. Then take what you've learned and give life to your own machine...before conquering the planet!

...AND ONWARD!

Join the legions of LEGO fans who have brought to life an army of intelligent chess sets, cube solvers, touch-sensitive guitars and more.

Turn a minifigure doctor's syringe into a tiny laser cannon!

A 1x2 plate fits nicely here

START HERE

1 Basic parts

You only need a few pieces to start building a micro-spaceship. A 2x4 plate provides a stable base, while other parts start to define the shape of the model.

A sliding plate adds a curve underneath for smooth landings

1x1 round plates create an even building surface for connecting the next level

2 Space shape

A folded hinge plate gives your micro-ship a pointed nose, and a 1x2 plate with bar creates a clip connection point at the back. Adding 1x1 plates with side rings let you attach cool space-age details.

I'll handle this.

A 1x2 plate with side bars gives a large spaceship tiny lasers... or a little spaceship gigantic ones!

Plates with handled bars create mounts for wings

4 Taking wing

Build a pair of mirror-image wings and clip them into place on the model's sides. Attach some rocket engines to the handled bar at the back, too!

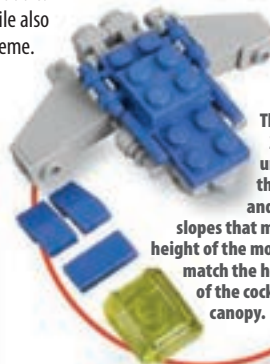

1x2 click-hinge plate adds a decorative detail

This bracket is usually used for attaching backpacks to minifigures!

3 Color and details

The next set of pieces continues to add to your micro-spaceship's details, while also giving it an eye-catching color scheme. Especially useful are bars to let you attach the wings.

Small, detailed LEGO elements become big, detailed parts on a micro-model. What pieces in your collection could be part of a miniature vehicle?

There is a 2x2 plate underneath the 1x2 tile and curved slopes that makes the height of the model's body match the height of the cockpit canopy.

5 Blast off, micro-style!

Use a tile and some curved slopes to cover up studs and streamline the model's shape. Add a transparent piece for a see-through cockpit canopy, and launch into miniature space adventures!

It's a little cramped, but it sure is fast!

Handled bar looks like an extension of the laser cannons

Fit lightsaber handles onto these studs for a heavily armed battle cruiser!

MYSTERY OF THE MISSING SANDWICH!

LEGO

SCOOBY-DOO!

WE HAVE A MYSTERY TO SOLVE!

A monster stole Shaggy and Scooby-Doo's sandwich snack! Help the gang figure out which monster stole the sandwich!

Here are the four clues Velma found. Read them and then check out the character descriptions at the bottom of the page to figure out who stole the sandwich!

- 1 The lighthouse has been shining all night.
- 2 No one heard anything when the sandwich was stolen.
- 3 The sandwich has garlic in it.
- 4 The monster left no footprints.

Who stole the sandwich?

Lighthouse Keeper
This spooky ghoul keeps the lighthouse running.

Swamp Monster
Leaving a trail of sticky swamp mud wherever he walks, beware of the Swamp Monster!

Black Knight
If you hear clinking and clanking, the Black Knight is not far behind!

Ghost
The Ghost can float through walls to surprise you when you least expect it!

Vampire
The vampire is a master of the night, but silver and garlic can keep him away.
